

Preventing Workplace Harassment

EMP-LVF-PRWHE01-ILT

This ½ day course is designed to build and enhance your knowledge of effective strategies to effectively handle inappropriate behaviour and workplace harassment in diverse organizations. While credit unions across Canada are dedicated to providing a working environment in which all employees are treated with respect, dignity, and tact, what constitutes harassment may not always be clear.

Through a variety of learning methods including case studies, dialogue and lecture, this offering will utilize the credit union's existing policy to make the model of a harassment free workplace tangible and real in the culture of the organization.

You will learn about:

- Provide you with a new and positive way of looking at change so that it works to your advantage
- Give you an "easy language" and method of thinking that will accelerate you and your organization's ability to change
- Show you a reliable way to win by doing what works in changing times

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Use their credit union's policy (if necessary) to deal with 'inappropriate' behaviour
- Build and use an individual action plan for dealing with workplace harassment in a diverse organization.
